Avian Influenza Update

The AU Northwest Zone Director, John Hundrup, has been closely monitoring the influenza outbreak in the Northwest. We have learned the following.

Washington

The quarantine that had been in place in Clallam County has been lifted. Testing from 44 different premises proved negative.

The second quarantine which is within Okanogan County remains in effect. Washington State Department of Agriculture will continue monitoring the situation. No movement of poultry or poultry products is allowed at this time.

Idaho

The Idaho State Department of Agriculture lifted the quarantine that encompassed a six mile area surrounding Parma and a small portion of Malheur County in Oregon. They are still evaluating and reminding all to be vigilant and to use the best possible biosecurity measures.
